Art Unit: 1724

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-7, drawn to a method, classified in class 210, subclass 725.
- II. Claims 8-16, drawn to a drilling fluid additive or mud, classified in class 507, subclass 139.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions II and I are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the drilling fluid additive or mud as claimed can be used in a materially different method such as a metal recovery method.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

During a telephone conversation with Karen B. Tripp on 9-9-03 a provisional election was made with traverse to prosecute the invention of Group I, claims 1-7. Affirmation of this election must be made by applicant in replying to this Office action. Claims 8-16 are withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claims 1 "the chelate" and in claim 3 "the iron" lack clear antecedent basis.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Son et al. 4,526,693. Son et al. disclose (see col. 2 line 18 through col. 3 line 25) a method for removing sulfide ion from a fluid or reducing hydrogen sulfide concentration in a drilling fluid substantially as claimed. The claims differ from Son et al. by reciting that iron sulfide is formed or precipitated. It is submitted that the complexing of ferrous gluconate with hydrogen sulfide as in Son et al. would appear to precipitate iron sulfide as in the instant method. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to modify the method of Son et al. by forming or precipitating iron sulfide in the fluid, to aid in reducing corrosion in a drilling fluid well bore. The specific pH utilized and quantity of gluconate added, would have been an obvious matter of process optimization to one skilled in the art, depending on the specific fluid treated and results desired, absent a sufficient showing of unexpected results.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
